WHEN YOU FORGET A PAGE NUMBER
AND YOUR FRIEND SAYS IT’S PLAGIARISM

AND YOUR FRIEND SAYS IT’S PLAGIARISM
PLAGIARISM

In Assiniboine’s Policy A25, plagiarism is defined as “using another’s words, ideas, theories or images without crediting the source” (Assiniboine Community College, 2013). Sources are credited through citations and references. Mistakes within existing citations and references are mistakes, and at the community college level may cost you a few marks. However, missing citations and references may be considered cheating, so make sure to cite your sources correctly. For more information on APA style citing and plagiarism, use the resources: assiniboine.libguides.com/ai-students.
ONE DOES NOT SIMPLY PARAPHRASE PARAPHRASES
Paraphrasing or re-phrasing is using the ideas of others, but saying them in your own words. The aim is to keep the meaning the same, but change the sentence structure, word order, and then use synonyms. Since a paraphrase also contains a citation and a reference, it is the best way to avoid plagiarism. It takes practice, and is an important skill for students to possess, not only in college, but for their entire lives!

For more information, check out: assiniboine.libguides.com/citing. To get help with paraphrasing, book a Writing/APA Citing or Writing a Paper/Assignment appointment with the Learning Curve at: acclearningcurve.as.me.
BUYS ASSIGNMENTS FROM FORMER STUDENT SUBMITS THEM AS THEIR OWN
Contract cheating and academic fraud happen when a student has someone else do their work for them. It is cheating if you buy an assignment from the Internet. It is still cheating, even if it is your friend, spouse, or mom doing your work. Contract cheating and fraud are serious forms of academic misconduct. Consequences could include failing grades, suspensions, and permanent record of academic misconduct on student transcripts. For information to help you complete your assignments with integrity, use the resources: assiniboine.libguides.com/ai-students
Josh Seeland - seelandjl@assiniboine.net